

virginblue
voyeur

DECEMBER 2007

TAKE ME I'M YOURS

ISLE BE THERE
From King to Kangaroo, it's an island nation

Christmas all wrapped up + 24 hours of tipples + London for shopaholics + building an alcohol empire

K-ZONE SPECIAL
It's all fun and games!

JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE
The sound of the future

virginblue.com.au polynesianblue.com flypacificblue.com

Virgin Blue Voyeur
December 2007

Know it all p. 24

Water Watch

KNOWITALL

FEEL_GOOD

WATER WATCH

If all the world's water was represented by one litre of liquid, our available freshwater supply would be equal to just half a teaspoon. This sobering fact comes from Half a Teaspoon – a company incorporating water awareness programs into hotels. It has developed ShowerWatch, which helps guests keep their shower time to the recommended four minutes. For more information, visit www.halfateaspoon.com.

LITTLE RAY OF SUNSHINE

Outdoor lighting has never looked better than with the Sun Jar. The watertight Mason jar houses a solar cell that, when left out in the sun, powers the rechargeable battery and lights up three low-energy LED lamps. Call +61 2 9690 0016 or visit www.sunjar.com.au.

SWEET CHARITY

Put the power of giving into the hands of your friends and family this Christmas. Purchase an Everyday Hero charity gift card for either $25 or $50, and the recipient can pass the gift on to their preferred charity. The cards are available from all Australia Post outlets, selected Caltex stations and 7-Eleven stores. For details, visit www.everydayhero.com.au.

READERS DIGEST

One in five Australians experiences a digestive complaint such as coeliac disease, colitis, Crohn's disease and irritable bowel syndrome (IBS). It usually means a total re-think of your diet, which can be overwhelming, but with Healing Foods by Sandra Ramacher (Elephant Publishing, RRP $34.95), you'll have 200-plus digestion-friendly recipes at your fingertips. From hamburgers to sticky date pudding, with this book you can now have your cake and eat it too.

GO BUSH, GO GREEN

If there was ever a time to go bush, it's now. Hikers and outdoorsy types can now feel even smugger, and snugger, about leaving a lighter carbon footprint with Paddy Pollin's environmentally friendly ReSource daypack and a Tofutech™ T-shirt. Just released by travel fabric experts ExOfficio, Tofutech™ is made from natural soybeans and costs $49.95. ReSource daypacks are constructed from recycled materials including PET soft-drink bottles, starting from $79.95, with part of each sale donated to 'green' causes. Even couch potatoes can do their bit, with $15 green gift cards that fund the planting of 32 gumtrees on Bush Heritage reserves, helping threatened native species such as the western pygmy

